Office of the Registrar-General update

I am pleased to announce that from Friday 6 October I have been appointed to the position of Registrar-General.

I have been an active practitioner dealing with the land titles system for many years as a consulting Licensed Surveyor and for the past five years in my role as Surveyor-General for South Australia, an office which I will continue to maintain.

Through this I have worked closely with Brenton Pike and our industry partners, particularly through the development and implementation of SAILIS and the more recent commercialisation stakeholder forum. I am committed to maintaining the integrity of the lands titling system to the level we have all come to expect and, in conjunction with the Valuer-General, look forward to working closely with Land Services SA as they develop as our exciting new industry partner.

As of tomorrow, operational responsibility for the provision of certain lands titling and valuation services will transition to Land Services SA. This will not result in any material impact on your access to lands titling and valuation services.

For those of you who are users of SAILIS and EPL you will be familiar with regular monthly pop-ups through your use of these systems. As part of the business transition you will notice a pop-up setting out the terms and conditions of use of these systems between the users and Land Services SA.
