ORG Web Presence Has Moved

The web presence of the Office of the Registrar-General (ORG) has today moved from the website of the Department of Infrastructure and Transport to the Attorney-General's Department website.

Resources available on the ORG website include information about the history of land titling, the evolution to eConveyancing, contractual management, fees and charges, and requirements for government data requests.

The new website is on a more mobile friendly platform, is easier to navigate and offers improved accessibility.

Please note if you have any bookmarks to our resources or references in your documentation or website you may now encounter broken links. Please update your bookmarks and other materials accordingly.
